ST. ROSE'S "TECH" SCHOOL ENLISTS AID OF SOCIETY

Mrs. Taft Sends Autograph and Bouquet to the Sale. Official Circles Will Be Largely Represented at Function.

Few persons in social and official life in Washington take a more active interest in the welfare of the local charitable and educational institutions than Mrs. Taft, who has again shown her thoughtfulness by presenting to the technical school, which will be held this afternoon for the benefit of St. Rose's Technical School, Phelps place and California street, her autograph, together with a bouquet of orchids and gardenias for the doll bride, both to be sold for the benefit of the institution. There will be an exhibition at the bazaar, which will begin at 5 o'clock, all sorts of useful and fancy articles, dolls and novelties, suitable for Christmas gifts, the work of the pupils of the school. The entertainment is given under the auspices of the Ladies of Charity of the school, of which Mrs. Jussara is the honorary president and Mrs. W. E. Montgomery acting president. The wives of many of the members of the diplomatic corps have offered their assistance, and it is safe to say that official and resident society will be largely represented at the function. The various tables will be in charge of the following:

Utility table—Mrs. Jussara, who will be assisted by Mrs. Lefevre-Pontal, Mrs. Vasiliou, Countess de Chambrun, Miss Lee, Mrs. William Rink, Miss Evans, Miss Cahill, Mrs. D. J. Callahan, and Miss Shea.

Food table—Mrs. William Kearney Carr, Mrs. von Loewenthal-Linan, Mrs. D. K. McCarty, Miss Marie Redfern, Mrs. J. N. McGill.

Ten and supper table—in charge of Mrs. Allen K. Capron, who will be assisted by Mrs. de Peretti de la Rocca, the Misses Joyce, Mrs. Upton Gieseking, Mrs. Ridenour, Miss Dorothy Harman Dawson, Miss Collins, Miss Reider, Mrs. Winter, the Misses Fisher, Mrs. Reza, Mrs. Callan, Mrs. Thompson, Miss Davidson, and Miss Messer.

Ten cream, cake, and lemonade table—Mrs. Thomas W. Stubbfield, assisted by young ladies of Belmont Seminary. Fancy table—Mrs. Montgomery, Mrs. Martin Knapp, Mrs. Byron Adams, Miss Fogg, Mrs. Williamson, Mrs. James Gann, and Miss Dove.

Many tables have been reserved for the hot turkey supper, to follow the tea and bazaar, and which is to be served from 5 to 8 o'clock. Tables may be reserved by telephoning to the school.

The officers of the board of managers include Mrs. Jussara, honorary president; Mrs. Montgomery, acting president; Miss Alice Ringer, Mrs. John P. Story, Mrs. William K. Carr, Mrs. D. K. McCarty, and Mrs. Hennis Taylor, vice president; Miss Marie Redfern, corresponding secretary, and Viscountess de Boist d'Arcy, recording secretary.

Mlle. Branjon Pleases.

Prima Donna Soprano Warmly Received at Imperial Theater.

Mlle. Elizabeth Branjon, prima donna soprano, was the principal attraction at the Imperial Theater yesterday at the Sunday concert. Mlle. Branjon was enthusiastically received and created an impression in the capital, which will insure her a warm reception upon her return here at any time.

Her numbers were "The Magic Flute" (Mozart); "Love Is the Wind" (Mazzy); "O Believe Me, if I Am" (Those Endearing Young Charms). Especially in the last was she repeatedly cheered. Her voice is a rich soprano, of unusual range and power. Miss Clara MacHammer, another soprano possessing a pleasing voice, rendered several operatic and other selections, and was well received. Other musical numbers of a high order were also heard.

LECTURES ON PUBLIC HEALTH.

Two Physicians Will Give Addresses at Schools.

Two lectures on personal health will be given this week under the joint auspices of the Woman's Clinic and the American Medical Association. Dr. Elmer Cuddeback, Fekner will speak to students and mothers of Normal School on "Hygiene for girls" this afternoon.

Dr. George F. Girard will address the Mothers' and Teachers' Association of Carberry School on the "Teeth in relation to health" on Wednesday afternoon.

Copp Speaks on Children.

In an address before the West Street Presbyterian Church last night, the Rev. Zed H. Copp spoke on the topic, "The children of our city." Rev. Mr. Copp classified the children of the cities in three groups—dutiful, destitute ones, and delinquent. As a remedy for the condition of destitute children, he advocated a central home where the family could be kept intact. The improvement of the delinquent child, he said, depended solely upon careful training by the parents.

Meeting of Jewish Women.

The Ladies' Auxiliary Association of the Adas Israel Congregation held its regular meeting yesterday afternoon in the vestry rooms of the synagogue, at Sixth and I streets northwest. A child, the daughter of the congregation, will be married on Wednesday, January 2, at old Masonic Temple.

Three Ways to Transfer.

Here are suggestions for transferring the pattern before you to any material before working.

Perhaps the easiest way is the "window-pane" method. This is successful when the material is thin, like linen, batiste, etc. Pin the sheet of paper and the material together and hold them up against the glass of a window. With a sharp pencil go over the outline of the design, which can be easily seen through the glass. If one-half of the design only is given, unpin the paper and turn the other side to the fabric. The strong light behind will make it plain.

If you have carbon paper, you should place the sheet between your fabric and the newspaper. This latter is on top. With a sharp pencil go over the outline of the design. The impression will be left in the lines and will last until worked. This method is successful on heavy material.

The last way is also easy. On wax paper or ordinary tissue paper trace the pattern before you. When the design is completed, turn over the paper and outline the pattern with a heavy lead pencil. Then place the design down on the fabric and redraw the outline, pressing hard with the pencil. The pattern will be transferred without difficulty. Surely the way is easy.

Society

Miss Taft and her house guests of Bryn Mawr schoolgirls enjoyed their Sunday in the White House quite simply, lunching informally with the President and Mrs. Taft. In the afternoon three of the five girls—Miss Isabel Vincent, Miss Marion Crane, of Baltimore, and Miss Bonetou, of New Jersey—returned to their school duties. The President and Mrs. Taft, Miss Taft and her five house guests, with Miss Ruth Tanner, of this city; Miss Jeanette Allen, daughter of Maj. Henry T. Allen, and Maj. Archibald W. Butt, formed a very happy and interested double box party. The performance of "The First Lady of the Land" at the Columbia, which naturally appealed very particularly to the President and his family, as the scenes are laid in and around the White House and Washington, and the heroine in the play is Dolly Madison.

The Argentine Minister and Mme. Nean, who have been in the house of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Granger, in Connecticut avenue, since their arrival here, will take possession of 22 Lafayette square the middle of the week, which they have leased for the season. This was the home of a former Brazilian Ambassador, the late Mr. Nabuco, and is considerably larger than the Granger house. Mr. and Mrs. Granger will not return to the home this season, but have an apartment at Florence Court.

Mrs. Harsh, wife of Commander C. C. Marsh, was hostess at a breakfast at the Chevy Chase Club yesterday, having among her guests her sister, Mrs. Harold Sewall, their young cousin, Miss Louise Sewall, granddaughter of Mrs. Richard Wallace, Miss Whitely, Rev. Mr. Wellbourne, of Baltimore; Commander Grossbeck, Commander McCully, and Mr. Hugh Roland.

Miss Louise Wallace, daughter of Mr. Marshall Wallace, a former Washingtonian, who now makes his home in California, has come to Washington to spend the winter with her grandfather, Mr. Wallace, and her mother, Mrs. Richard Wallace, among her father's old friends and relatives. Miss Wallace was a debutante of last season. Mr. Wallace is the father of a daughter, but will return to his Western home this week.

Mrs. Gherard, wife of Commander Walter R. Gherard, entertained a company of ten at luncheon at the Chevy Chase Club yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Williams entertained at dinner last evening in honor of Miss Fritzie von Busing, who is in "The Wedding Trip" company, at the Belasco this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Reginald de Koven are at Washington spending the week-end with Gen. and Mrs. Clarence Edwards, who will entertain a dinner company for them this evening. After the dinner, they will occupy a box at the performance at the Belasco of "The Wedding Trip," the company of which is successful. It has been a long time since Mr. and Mrs. de Koven have been in Washington, even for a short time, where Mr. de Koven was closely identified with music. It was he who really started the Washington Symphony Orchestra and convinced the public that a local orchestra was possible. He was the first conductor, it will be remembered.

Rear Admiral and Mrs. Southard have cards out for the marriage of their daughter Mary to Mr. Louis Bacon, of New York. The ceremony will be performed on the afternoon of January 2, at 4:30 o'clock, in the apartment of the bride's parents, at Stoneleigh Court, and will be witnessed only by the families and several close friends. A small reception will follow.

Paymaster and Mrs. John Swift Higgins, the latter formerly Miss Eastwood, of Georgetown, have returned from their wedding trip, and are settled in their apartment at the Brighton for the season.

Miss Nina Stockton has arrived in Washington from Gloucester, the summer home of the family, and will spend the winter with her uncle and aunt, Gen. and Mrs. George C. Reid, who will present her to society at a tea on the afternoon of December 15. Miss Stockton is one of the most attractive of the season, and a number of entertainments have been planned for her.

The marriage of Miss Evelyn Chew, granddaughter of Mrs. Tilton J. Coffey, to Mr. Thomas C. Roberts, Jr., of Philadelphia, will take place on Wednesday of this week at 12:30 o'clock, in the home of her grandmother, where she has lived nearly all her life. The ceremony will be followed by a reception. The bride will be attended by her sister, Mrs. John P. Moorehead, as matron of honor, and the best man will be Mr. George Roberts, of Philadelphia, brother of the bridegroom. Rev. Deane Roberts, of Boston, eldest brother of the bridegroom, will assist Rev. Roland Cotton Smith at the ceremony.

Mr. John C. Everman entertained at dinner last evening at the New Willard in honor of his sister, Miss Margaretta Everman, and her fiancé, Mr. James P. Curley, of St. Louis, who will be married to-morrow evening in the Shrine of the Sacred Heart. Miss Everman is entertaining in her house party for the wedding of Miss Margaretta, of Boston, sister of the bridegroom, and her own sister, Miss Alice Everman, who arrived yesterday from Chicago, where she is one of the prima donnas in the Chicago Opera Company for the season. Miss Alice Everman will be her sister's maid of honor. Dr. William Curley, of New York, brother of the bridegroom, will be the best man. The bridegroom arrived in Washington yesterday morning.

The debutante of this afternoon will be Miss Frances Hodges, the charming young daughter of Col. Harry F. Hodges, who will be introduced by her mother at a tea in their home, 1735 Massachusetts avenue.

Invitations have been received here for the marriage of Miss Lillian Duncan Baxter to Lieut. George Steele Gillis, U. S. A., on the evening of December 20. The ceremony will be performed in the home of Miss Baxter's cousin, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Carter Nichols, in the Francis, where the bride and her mother have spent some months. They had intended to have the wedding take place in the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Gen. and Mrs. Duncan, at Fort Sam Houston, Tex., but the serious illness of the latter made it advisable for the wedding to be postponed. Miss Baxter was a debutante in Washington two years ago and was one of the most popular girls in the army set.

The marriage of Miss Eva Hurd, of Brookland, D. C., to Mr. Theodore Willis will take place on December 20.

Miss Margaretta Brooke is in New Orleans, where she will act as bridesmaid for Miss Alice Baldwin, a schoolmate, who has just arrived. Miss Baldwin will be married to-morrow to Mr. Pon-taine Martin, of Memphis, Tenn. Miss Brooke has had a gay visit in New Orleans, where the bride-elect and her house guests have been greatly entertained.

ending the wedding. Miss Brooke will join her mother at their apartment in the Highlands in another week.

Former Representative Charles R. Landis, of Delphi, Ind., has removed with his family to Wilmington, Del., where he has become connected with the Du Pont Powder Works. The many friends of Mrs. Landis and her daughter, Miss Mary, who will be married to a young man from near to Washington, as few members of the official set in Washington have left here with a wider circle of warm friends. They have spent a portion of each winter here since Mr. Landis' retirement from politics.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Richardson announce the engagement of their daughter, N. Irene, to Mr. Christopher M. Rooney, of Chicago. The wedding will take place December 6.

SUCCEEDS COUSIN IN HIGH POSITION

Capt. William L. Rodgers, who is in command of the battle ship Georgia, will succeed Rear Admiral Raymond P. Rodgers as president of the Naval War College, at Newport, R. I., this month. The two are cousins.

The selection of Capt. Rodgers as head of the board of strategy for the United States navy has found general approval. Assistant Secretary of the Navy Beakman Winthrop said about Capt. Rodgers that he is among the best fitted men in the country for the position.

"Capt. Rodgers' talents," said Secretary Winthrop, "peculiarly fit him for the new duties he will undertake. In recent years he has shown himself a master of the problems of war. I doubt if a better man could be found to fill the position."

The present and the newly appointed occupant of the high office are members of a family whose name has been interwoven with the naval history of the Philippines for generations. Several other relatives are officers of the navy.

Admiral Rodgers succeeded Rear Admiral J. T. Merrell as president of the Naval War College in 1906. He was born in this city. His father was a rear admiral. Prior to the Spanish-American war Admiral Rodgers served as naval attaché to the American embassies in Russia and France. He was the outbreak of the war in Cuba was appointed executive officer of the Iowa. He saw active service at Santiago, afterward in the Philippines, and during the Boxer uprising. From 1902 to 1909 he served as chief intelligence officer in the Navy Department.

The Naval War College at Newport is really an institution for the most prominent officers of the navy gather in conference. It is intended as a training for the younger officers who, by attending, may get an insight into the plans of offense and defense prepared by men whose lives have been devoted to the study of naval strategy.

HIS INITIAL SERMON.

New Pastor Preaches in Metropolitan M. E. Church.

Rev. Dr. James S. Montgomery, of St. Paul, Minn., who succeeded Rev. Dr. John Reid Shannon as pastor of the Metropolitan M. E. Church, preached his initial sermon yesterday morning on the text, "I am come to seek and to save that which was lost."

Dr. Montgomery said in part: "Jesus, the carpenter's son, is the most stupendous fact in the march of civilization. When Jesus stepped upon earth, the golden rule among men was unknown. The obligation of the Christian is to love and exemplify love toward his fellow-man. 'Man is infinitely bigger than institutions. When institutions come against man, whether they be political, commercial, or social, man's right is to go up and institutions should go down. The primary duty of this republic is not to build up institutions, but to build up man. The objective point of the whole race of Jesus was man."

HONOR ALMA MATER.

Washington Alumni of Johns Hopkins Dine To-night.

The Washington alumni of the Johns Hopkins University will give an informal dinner at the Cosmos Club at 8 o'clock to-night. The guests of honor will be Prof. Maurice Bloomfield, of the faculty; Dr. Philander P. Claxton, United States Commissioner of Education, and Dr. William M. Davidson, superintendent of public schools.

The officers of the Alumni Association are Prof. Mitchell Carroll, president; Dr. Frank K. Cameron, vice president, and James Lee Boat, secretary-treasurer.

At Vermont Avenue Christian Church last night a movement was begun to secure a vice commission for Washington to investigate the red light district, similar to the commissions that have recently made reports in Chicago and Minneapolis in favor of abolition instead of segregation, although the commissions at the beginning were in favor of the latter policy.

THE OBSERVER.

The stories of two New York boys have recently occupied considerable space in the newspapers.

From the fifth story of a tenement where he lived, a messenger boy fell to instant death while trying to rig up a wireless apparatus. He was dangling in the air when the frayed rope that was attached to a chimney on the roof broke, and the lad in whose mind dwelt the dream of fame as another Jack Binns was lost.

He had not long been dead when another boy, a blue-eyed, golden-haired "Lord Fauntleroy" sort of a boy, was taken in custody by the police as a "Raffler" who had given several precincts nervous prostrations by his wily apartment house robberies.

Just for a moment, as we sit at breakfast table, let us—you and I—who are grown up—consider the impelling trait which sent one boy to a police court and another to death.

That tireless activity, that eternal inquisitiveness that is born of age-old heredity, the determination to find out how thick is the ice on the skating pond and how deep is the swimming hole and how many eggs are in the robin's nest—all of these are part of the boyish nature.

If the messenger boy—who would be Jack Binns before his trousers were lengthened—had used his dauntless energy in some other way—if he had not attempted his operations so ambitiously—he would be alive to-day and happy.

If the other youngster had confined his activities to less hazardous but no less exciting games than that of the outlaw, he would have escaped an ignominy that will now remain with him for years.

Yet neither boy was a coward, and a boy who has courage has good qualities, which, if rightly directed, furnish latent possibilities of greatness.

Do you remember what the great poet who with a man's mind possessed the golden heart of a boy, sang of the youngsters of all ages?

A boy's will is the wind's will, And the thoughts of youth are long thoughts.

Yes; a boy's will is the wind's will, ever changing, never resting, sweeping on in flights of imagination that dull adults cannot comprehend. The soft, sweet music of the Pied Piper of Hamelin, whom the boy knows by the name "Unknown," is always sounding in the childhood ears.

"Be a soldier," says the siren, "and conquer many fields."

"Or a great inventor whose name shall redound to the credit of all men."

"Or a Raffler—a courtly, clever thief whom no one shall ever suspect."

It is all the same in the boy's thoughts. They are the long, long thoughts of greatness to be achieved by daring. Life to him is the life of the gallant Crusader—the life to be conquered by the brave and strong.

His ambition may go awry and he may choose the wrong field for his activity. Even then he may still possess some traits that will lead to honor and fame.

SOCIAL PROBLEMS ACUTE.

First Sermon by New Pastor of St. Mark's P. E. Church.

Calling attention to the advance of materialism and the failure of the church to keep up with problems of the day, Rev. C. H. Stetson, who succeeded Rev. W. L. De Vries as rector of St. Mark's Episcopal Church, preached his opening sermon in that church yesterday morning. Taking as his text, "He shall receive power after the Holy Ghost has come upon him," Dr. Stetson outlined the sources of spiritual power, the power of faith, and the power of zeal. He told of the growth of socialism and its justification in the struggles of the people to find a way out of poverty and distress.

"Social questions of the day are becoming more acute," he concluded. "The churches must take more interest in the material welfare of the people, or else socialism may become anti-religious."

Dr. Stetson is a Washingtonian, the son of George R. Stetson, of 141 Massachusetts avenue. He is a graduate of Harvard in the class of 1894.
